

Delta Omega's 2025 Professional Development Webinar Series

Project Overview:

In 2025, Delta Omega will be hosting a monthly series of webinars for graduating students and early career professionals. Topics could include professional skills needed in the workplace and specific career paths in public health.

Goals

- Enhance Professional Development
Provide early career professionals with essential skills and knowledge to navigate the early stages of their careers effectively.
- Facilitate Career Advancement
Equip participants with tools to build a strong professional profile and take advantage of career opportunities in their field.
- Networking and Community Building
Encourage interaction among participants, mentors, and peers to establish meaningful professional connections.
- Support Career Exploration
Highlight diverse career paths and opportunities available to public health professionals.

Submission

To be considered, proposals should be submitted HERE by January 31, 2025.

Selections will be made by February 10, 2025. A public announcement about the 2025 schedule will follow. Proposals will be scored based on the following:

- Topic description in alignment with goals for the webinar series
- Detailed outline of proposed presentation
- Qualifications of presenters

Proposals

Your alumni, faculty and staff have much to share with future and recent graduates. We encourage all chapters to consider submitting a proposal for the series.

Submissions should include:

- Names and titles of key proposed participant(s)
- Description of the topic of presentation
- Outline of the presentation

Selection

The national office will be selecting the chapters based on the quality of their proposals, taking into account the variety of topics represented in the proposals. Submissions which include the participation of members of your chapter are highly encouraged. The national office plans to archive the presentations on our website.

FAQs

Who should be involved in development of the webinars and the presentation?
